FACTS

Plaintiff's Employment with Bad Horse Pizza, Inc.

12. Plaintiff worked for Defendants, without interruption, from June 2011 through October 2014.
13. Plaintiff was initially hired by Defendants as a deliveryman.
14. In 2012, Plaintiff received a promotion and began working in more of a multi-purpose role in the Restaurant's kitchen.
15. At no point in the course of Plaintiff's employment was he ever informed or asked about working more than 40 hours a week.
16. Throughout Plaintiff's employment by Defendants, Plaintiff was not paid overtime in accordance with the FLSA and NYLL, even though he consistently worked approximately 65 hours each week. Instead, for the vast majority of his employment with Defendants, Defendants would pay him a set amount per week (e.g., $350 for a week's worth of work), regardless of the actual number of hours he worked.

17. Throughout Plaintiff's employment with Defendants, Plaintiff would be assigned his work schedule by a supervisor. Plaintiff, though, never "punched in" a time clock (or use any other method) to officially document the hours he worked.

Bad Horse Pizza Inc.'s Violations of the Wage Theft Protection Act

18. The NYLL and Wage Theft Prevention Act require employers to provide all employees with a written notice of wage rates.
19. Throughout the relevant time period, Defendants paid Plaintiff's wages without any accompanying statement listing: the overtime rate or rates of pay; the number of regular hours worked and the number of overtime hours worked; gross wages; deductions; allowances, if any, claimed as part of the minimum wage; and net wages.
20. Plaintiff was never given a notice containing the rate or rates of pay and basis thereof, whether paid by the hour, shift, day, week, salary, piece, commission; allowances, if any, claimed as part of the minimum wage, including tip, meal, or lodging allowances; the regular pay day designated by the employer in accordance with NYLL 191; the name of the employer; any "doing business as" names used by the employer; the physical address of the employer's main office or principal place of business, and a mailing address if different; the telephone number of the employer; and anything otherwise required by law.

Plaintiff's Employment at Bad Horse Pizza, Inc. from 2011-2012

21. As previously stated, Plaintiff was initially hired as a deliveryman by Defendants. From on or about June 2011 through approximately June 2012, Plaintiff worked as a deliveryman at the Restaurant.

22. As a deliveryman, Plaintiff did not have a set schedule and worked approximately 65 hours a week. Even though Plaintiff worked more than 40 hours a week, Plaintiff never received overtime pay.
23. While Defendants' told Plaintiff he was paid $8 an hour, Plaintiff was actually paid just $350 each week regardless of how hours he actually worked.
24. Defendants paid Plaintiff in cash and never informed Plaintiff (in writing or otherwise) what his hourly rate of pay was or how many hours of overtime he performed each week.
25. Defendants used this payment method—the intentional failure to list the overtime rate as well as the actual overtime hours performed by Plaintiff—to circumvent compliance with the FLSA and NYLL.

Plaintiff's Employment at Bad Horse
Pizza, Inc. from June 2012 through May 2014

26. In or about June 2012, Plaintiff was promoted from deliveryman to work in the Restaurant's kitchen.
27. In the kitchen, Plaintiff performed a hybrid type role: he would clean and prepare the kitchen for the upcoming workday, order inventory, make pizzas and other entrees and provide guidance to other employees at the Restaurant.
28. From June 2012 through October 2014, Plaintiff worked a set schedule. Plaintiff worked Sunday and Monday from 12 p.m. to 10 p.m. and Wednesday through Sunday from 12 p.m. through 11 p.m.
29. Even though Plaintiff worked 66 hours a week, Plaintiff did not receive overtime pay.
30. Instead, Plaintiff was paid $750 per week in cash by Defendants regardless of how many hours he worked each week.

31. Defendants never informed Plaintiff (in writing or otherwise) what his hourly rate of pay was or how many hours of overtime he performed each week.
32. Defendants used this payment method—the intentional failure to list the overtime rate as well as the actual overtime hours performed by Plaintiff—to circumvent compliance with the FLSA and NYLL.

Plaintiff Goes from a Fixed Weekly Salary to Hourly Employee

33. From January 2014 until his termination in October 2014, Plaintiff was no longer paid $750 a week in cash by Defendants.
34. Instead, Defendants made Plaintiff an hourly employee. As reflected in the Plaintiff's paystubs, Defendants began paying Plaintiff $12.69 an hour.
35. Plaintiff received a raise to $14 an hour in April 2014. Plaintiff was paid $14 an hour until his termination in October 2014.
36. Plaintiff also continued to work approximately 64 hours a week.
37. Despite working approximately 64 hours each week, none of the Plaintiff's paystubs from January 2014 through October 2014 listed the overtime work performed by Plaintiff. In other words, regardless of the amount of hours Plaintiff worked, the maximum amount of hours his paystub would reflect was only 40 hours.
38. In addition, Plaintiff did not receive time and one-half for all work performed after 40 hours. Rather, Plaintiff purportedly received only "straight time" for all additional work performed after 40 hours.
39. Each week Plaintiff would receive an envelope containing $350. This payment purportedly represented all overtime pay earned that week by Plaintiff.

40. While Plaintiff was orally informed that he was paid straight time for all overtime work performed after 40 hours, Plaintiff never received any documentation setting forth the overtime hours he worked or his overtime rate of pay.
41. Defendants used this payment method—the intentional failure to list the overtime rate as well as the actual overtime hours performed by Plaintiff—to circumvent compliance with the FLSA and NYLL.
42. In October 2014, Plaintiff returned from a one-week vacation. In prior years, Plaintiff received paid vacation.
43. After realizing that he did not receive paid vacation, Garcia spoke to Defendant Kandel. In response, Defendant Kandel fired Plaintiff..

overtime rate or rates of pay if applicable; the regular pay day designated by the employer in accordance with NYLL, Article 6, § 191; the name of the employer; any “doing business as” names used by the employer; the physical address of the employer’s main office or principal place of business, and a mailing address if different; the telephone number of the employer; plus such other information as the commissioner deems material and necessary.

56. Through their knowing or intentional failure to provide Plaintiff with the wage notices required by the NYLL, Defendants have willfully violated NYLL, Article 6, §§ 190 et seq., and the supporting New York State Department of Labor Relations.

overtime rate or rates of pay if applicable; the number of hours worked, including overtime hours worked if applicable; deductions; and net wages.

60. Through their knowing or intentional failure to provide Plaintiff with the wage statements required by the NYLL, Defendants have willfully violated NYLL, Article 6, §§ 190 et seq., and the supporting New York State Department of Labor Regulations.

61. Due to Defendants' willful violations of NYLL, Article 6, § 195(3), Plaintiff is entitled to statutory penalties of one hundred dollars for each workweek that Defendants failed to provide Plaintiff with accurate wage statements, or a total of twenty-five hundred dollars each, reasonable attorneys' fees, costs and injunctive and declaratory relief, as provided for by NYLL, Article 6, § 198(1-d).
